

Letter of Information

You are invited to participate in usability testing of the Concordia University of Edmonton (CUE) library website. The results of this research will be used by the CUE Library to make improvements to the library website. This research will be completed by Dana Ouellette, Information Services Librarian.

Participants must be currently enrolled as a student at the Concordia University of Edmonton at the time of their testing. Participants will be tested between January and February 2019. The testing will take approximately 30 minutes in length.

Participants have the right to withdraw from the study at anytime during the interview, or may refuse to answer any question without negative consequences. Participants also have the right to withdraw any, or all, data collected at any point until 2 weeks after their usability test. The names of all participants will be kept confidential, and no identifying information will be included in reporting the results of the usability test.
